

Clickbank Domination – 2010 version

How to generate $150-$200 per day from Clickbank in 30 days for FREE.

Important Legal Information:

This guide is for your personal use and you have NO rights to it whatsoever. You may NOT give this away or use it as a bonus of any kind. You may also NOT reveal any information inside this guide in any manner whatsoever. I thank you for your cooperation.

One More Important Thing:

Before we move onto the actual system, I will tell you that having the right mindset from the start will play a major role in your success (or failure) in anything – especially in internet marketing.

If you doubt yourself or this system from the start, than you are setting yourself up for failure. If you think this system is too hard to do, it will be. If you think you won't make money, you won't. If you think that making money online is impossible, it will be for you.

There is a saying that goes “What you think is what you are.” I am a strong believer in this saying and I urge you to be as well. Having the right mindset before you start is vital to your success.

I designed this system to help solve 2 of the most prominent problems that people trying to make money online still face today:

1. No money to invest
2. No detailed action plan to follow

This system solves both of these problems. With this system, you get a full 30-day battle plan that tells you exactly what you need to do and when. You will also get a good grounding in some very fundamental yet extremely powerful internet marketing tactics. Best of all, you won't need to invest any money to implement the system. It is 100% free to implement. All it will take is a few hours each day of your time.

My success with the strategies was accomplished because I followed a specific plan on a daily basis. If you choose not to follow the plan, then you cannot expect to have similar results.

Luckily for you, I have outlined the exact steps that I use to dominate in affiliate marketing and generate a job-killing, life-changing income for you here. I recommend you print this report out or at the very least, take notes in a notebook for quick reference later. After you have finished reading the report, you absolutely must TAKE ACTION! Do not make excuses.

Even if it's 4am when you finish reading and you have work in a few hours, taking a small step like registering a couple of accounts or doing 30 min of research will create momentum and make it easier for you to keep moving forward. Just make sure you do SOMETHING. Do not just read this report, and then set it aside. Your success relies on your ability to stay disciplined and follow through.

My Personal Plan for Clickbank Destruction:

Now I know you are raring to make money online, so I won't keep you waiting any longer, but before you get started, there is one requirement – You must have a Clickbank account. If you don't, you won't be getting paid. So please go over to Clickbank and sign up right now if you don't have an account with them.

Once you have your Clickbank account and ID, you are set to get started.

The breakdown:

This is a quick breakdown of what the entire strategy is as a whole. I have broken down each step for you in detail, so don't worry. The method is quite simple, and only requires a few hours of work per day.

- Step 1: Select 5 products to promote
- Step2: Select your keywords
- Step 3: Create your landing pages
- Step 4: The "Traffic Slam"

- Step 5: Repeat traffic generation

Step 1 – Product Selection

The first thing you must have are some products to promote. A lot of marketers still make the same mistakes when picking products. The 2 most common mistakes are:

1. Picking something because you think will sell well.
2. Picking something because you are interested in the topic.

There are a few criteria that you must pay attention to when selecting your products. There's no use in selecting something if it's not going to make you money. The marketers that make the 2 mistakes I listed above pay no attention to researching before selecting their products which is not a good way to get started.

As you know, you will be marketing products from Clickbank and getting paid a commission for every sale that you make. The best thing about Clickbank is that most of the products offer 50-75% commissions, so there is a lot of opportunity to make some nice paychecks.

The first step is to find 5 products to promote from Clickbank that are proven sellers. Identifying products that are proven to sell is not that hard if you just take the time to do some research.

*NOTE*When I started out, I started with 5, but the amount really is up to you. The more products you have to promote, the more chances you will have of making more money. However, if you are newer to this, then I highly recommend you pick only 5 to start. This will help you get used to the system and avoid feeling overwhelmed. Once you are comfortable with the system and are making money, then you should ramp up your product promotion.

Now let me explain a little about Clickbank Products. Clickbank deals only with digital products, not physical products. So you will be selling things like e-books, software, membership site subscriptions, etc. Currently there are over 10,000 digital products for you to choose from spread across tons of different categories and sub-categories. To write all of these in this guide would not only take forever, but is really not necessary. With that said, if you are new to Clickbank, I recommend you take some time to explore the categories/sub-categories so that you are familiar with them.

Each product inside of Clickbank has 5 different statics that you want to pay attention to when deciding on a product to promote. This is not all we will look at when deciding on a product to promote, but they are important:

- $/Sale: The cost of the product
- $ Earned/Sale: Average net amount earned per affiliate from each referred sale. Note that this is the new earned per actual sale, and so it is impacted by refunds, charge backs, and sales taxes. This is how much your cut will be.
- % Earned/Sale: Average percent commission earned per affiliate per sale.
- % Referred: This is the percentage the publisher is making through his affiliates and not direct sales.
- Gravity: Number of distinct affiliates who earned a commission by referring a paying customer to the publisher's product. Note that this is a weighted sum and not an actual total. For each affiliate paid in the last 8 weeks, an amount between 0.1-1.0 is added to the total. The more recent the last referral, the higher the value added. All factors are combined and adjusted such that more recent sales activity is given greater weight. Products are not listed until at least one has been sold.

Now this might all sound confusing, so I will break it down for you what I look for when picking products:

1. Commission of at least $20 per sale.
2. Med-high Gravity: Between 100-200 is usually the "sweet spot"
3. %Referred of between 65-80%

Stats: $/sale: $26.97 | Future $: - | Total $/sale: $26.97 | %/sale: 75.0% | %/refd: 86.0%
| Grav: 76.23 | Cat: Health & Fitness : Remedies

I pay special attention first to the gravity. Obviously, a higher gravity means more affiliates are making money from the product, but that also means more competition. So choosing a product based only on high gravity can be a big mistake. Gravity should be taken into account when choosing your products, but is not the deciding factor.

I also like to see a higher percentage of referred sales.

Why?

This means that more affiliates are making sales. I prefer products with a % referred between 65% and 80%. I tend to stay away from products that have high gravities and an 80% % referred because this means the affiliate competition is very high. I also recommend you don't go any lower than 50%. Again, this is a personal preference, and just like gravity, it is not the deciding factor.

After taking into consideration the above factors, you must also have a look at the sales page of every product you select. As you look over their sales pitch, be objective. Put yourself in the mind of your potential targeted customer. Ask yourself these questions:

- Does the product have a good sales letter?
- Does the sales page have good graphics?
- Does the sales page have emotional triggers?

- Is the headline(s) captivating?
- Is this a product you would buy yourself after reading the sales letter?
- Is the product worth its price tag?

By following the above guidelines, select 5 products. A good tip is to select products across a mixture of different gravities. If you're just starting out, I recommend you select 2 products with low gravity (20-50), 1 with medium gravity (50-150), and 2 with high gravity (150+). The reason is that not every product is created equal, so having a variety to choose from will better your chances of success.

Other tips for selecting good products:

- Focus on having products from different categories (niches).
- Check to see if your selected product(s) have an affiliate resource page. If they do, you can get a lot of great information to help you in your promotion. It's usually at the bottom of the sales letter.
- The final thing you need to do is create a hoplink(your affiliate link) for each of your products, and then copy and paste them to a text document/word document. You will be using them a lot later.

That's it for Step 1. You should now have at least 5 products with a mixture of gravities across a few different niches that you are ready to promote. You can now move onto Step 2 – Keyword Research and Selection.

HOT TIP Clickbank has many products that have recurring commissions. So keep an eye out for them. If you find a product that has recurring monthly commissions that fits the above guidelines, you will be getting paid commissions monthly on this product for life.

Step 2 - Keyword Research and Selection

Now that you have selected your products, you are ready to move onto selecting keywords to target for each of your products. The main goal for your keyword research is to find long tail keywords with a healthy amount of daily searches and low competition. Here are the specific guidelines I follow when researching and selecting my keywords:

1. Each keyword must have at least 1,000 searches per month in Google's Keyword Tool.
2. Each keyword must have less than 300,000 competing pages.
3. Each keyword must have less than 10,000 competing pages when using the "allintitle" search modifier.
4. Each keyword must have web 2.0 sites/article directories showing up on page 1 when searched.
5. Each keyword must have at least 3+ words.

How would you like to generate keyword ideas?	Enter one keyword or phrase per line:

	Filter my results
	<input type="button" value="Get keyword ideas"/>

"remove acne scars"		9,900	8,100	Add Phrase <<
"treatment for acne scars"		9,900	5,400	Add Phrase <<

Remember, you will be targeting long tail keywords. Long tail keywords are not only great because they are easier to get ranked in Google for, but they also are more targeted. A person searching for “weight loss tips for teenage girls” is way more targeted than someone searching for “weight loss.”

NOTE A quick note I must make on these numbers is that they will change as long as Google and the search engines keep changing. The above guidelines are what I currently use at the time of writing this report, and I have great success using these guidelines.

With that said, I find that the easiest keywords to rank for have less than 100,000 competing pages, less than 10,000 competing pages for “allintitle”, and have multiple web 2.0/article sites (user-generated content sites) showing up on page 1.

There are a lot of keyword tools that work great, but I prefer to use Google’s Keyword Tool. Why? Because Google is going to be the main source of your traffic, so you want to pay attention to what they are telling you. I will note that Wordtracker’s free tool is also great for finding long-tail keywords.

Daily Searches

Initially grab as many keywords as you can. Once you have grabbed these keywords narrow down your list to 10-15 keywords for each product. You will do this by searching each keyword in Google in quotes i.e. "weight loss tips". This will give you the amount of pages competing for that keyword. You want to have less than 300,000 competing pages. If the keyword has more, take it out of your list for now.

NOTE When you take keywords out of your list, you may want to save them in a separate sheet for later use just in case the niche/product you chose turns out to be really profitable.

Sometimes it can be hard to find keywords that fit the criteria. In this case, I have found that adding keyword modifiers can help work around this. The easiest way to find keyword modifiers is through Google Suggest. If the keyword is popping up in Google Suggest, then you know that it's a term people are actively searching for.

The first screenshot shows a Google search for "acne scars removal". The search bar contains the text "acne scars removal". The results bar at the top indicates "Results 1 - 10 of about 876,000 for 'acne scars removal'. (0.57 seconds)".

The second screenshot shows a Google search for "acne scars removal" with a dropdown menu of suggestions. The suggestions include: "acne scars removal cream", "acne scars removal products", "acne scars removal at home", "acne scars removal laser", "acne scars removal home remedies", "acne scars removal cost", and "acne scars removal home remedy". The results bar at the top indicates "Results 1 - 10 of about 1,900,000 for acne scars removal. (0.34 seconds)".

The third screenshot shows a Google search for "acne scars removal home remedies". The search bar contains the text "acne scars removal home remedies". The results bar at the top indicates "Results 1 - 7 of 7 for 'acne scars removal home remedies'. (0.26 seconds)".

Once you have selected your 10-15 keywords for each of your selected products, you are now ready to move onto Step 3 – Landing Page Creation.

Step 3 – Landing Page Creation

Let's dive right in. I know you want to start making money ASAP, and I want you to as well. So let's keep on moving forward. Remember, TIME = MONEY.

You should now have 5 products you are ready to promote each with 10-15 long tail keywords to target. Now you will create 5 free landing pages to post your product review(s).

You may be asking, "What the hell is a landing page?" Basically, it's a page where you will pre-sell your chosen products. The whole purpose of a landing page is to persuade (I prefer the term "warm up") your prospects to clicking your affiliate links to the sales page of the product you are promoting. From there, it's up to the publisher to sell the product. Now do you see why I said you need to be objective and put yourself in the mind of customer when you're selecting your products?

There are many different types of landing pages; all with their respective purposes and uses. But for this report, you will only need to focus on one type of landing page – the product review. We will use free blogs to host our landing pages. Why?

For starters, they are just insanely easy for anyone to create and keep updated. There a few free blogs services out there, but I prefer to use Blogger, Squidoo, or Wordpress. However, for the sake of this method and the report, I chose to go with Blogger since it is the easiest out of 3 to use. Its interface is so easy to navigate that anyone with absolutely no web design experience could create a landing page here. In fact, most of it is all set to go, so all you really have to do is sign-up for free at Blogger, choose your template, and then start writing posts.

The best thing about using blogs for landing pages is that each blog post is considered a separate page. In other words, with the proper keywords and some simple SEO (search engine optimization), it's highly possible to get every single page of your blog ranked in Google on page 1 for their respective keywords.

When you create your blog, there are some very simple yet effective things that you need to do to optimize it for the search engines. The first thing you will want to do is optimize each product's landing page for its respective best keyword (Remember those lists of keywords you made?).

Now which keyword is the best has been a topic of hot debate for a long time. Some like to use the keyword with the most searches; others like to use a keyword with a nice balance of daily searches and competing pages, etc...

I personally like to use and recommend you go with the keyword that has the most amounts of searches. It may have the most competition, but you will be building tons of backlinks to this landing page with my traffic strategy, so it should have no problem ranking in the long run.

You will use this keyword in the URL of your landing page. So if your keyword was "weight loss tips for teens", your selected URL should be `weightlosstipsforteens.blogspot.com`

weight-loss-tips-for-teens.blogspot.com

Sometimes you will find that your selected URL has already been taken. You can add spaces between each word like I did above, or even add numbers i.e. `weightlosstipsforteens1.blogspot.com`

weight-loss-tips-for-teens1.blogspot.com

The main thing is you do not want to alter the order of the words in your keyword i.e. `weight-loss-for-teens-tips`. This will make a whole new keyword phrase. Another thing you can do if your keyword URL is taken is just target another keyword from your list.

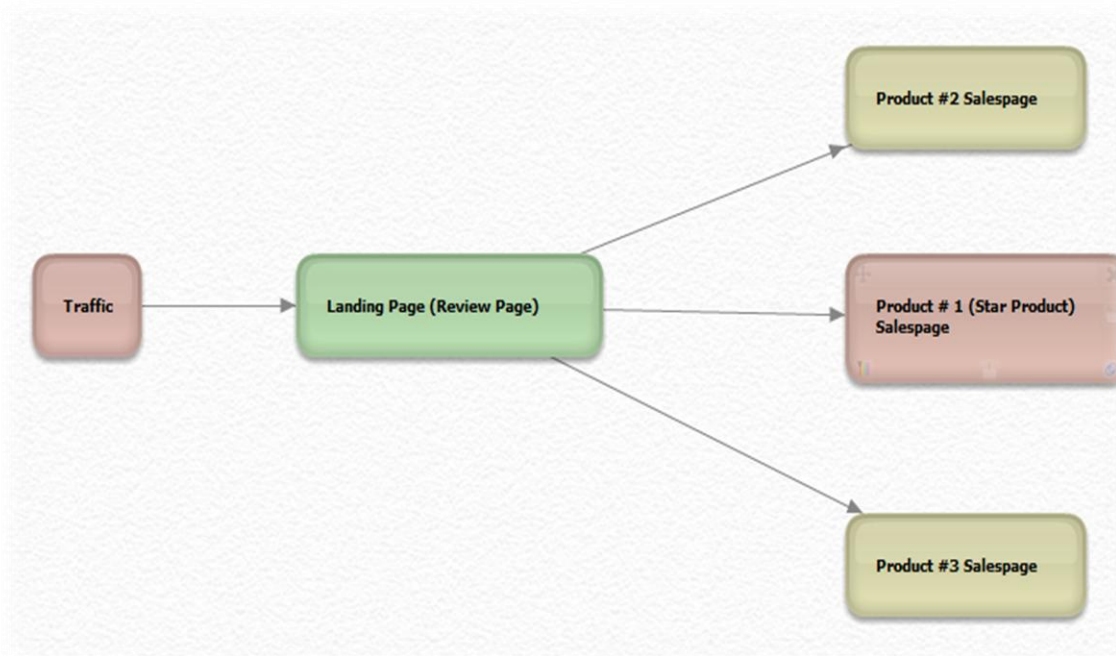

After you have your landing page created, you need to give it structure. For this method your landing page will be a review page. There are 2 types of review pages: the single product review pages and multiple product review pages.

The single product review page is very basic. It's a pre-sell about the product that you chose to promote and that product only. Here's an example of what the flow of a single product review page should be:

This type of landing page is actually less effective since writing a pre-sell on a single product sounds like you are trying to sell something. Also, once a visitor clicks your affiliate link, they will be re-directed to the product's sales page. This will turn a lot of people off.

The second type of review page, the multiple product review page, is my personal favorite. It is also much more effective. With this type of review page, you will be make 3-5 posts and each will be reviewing a separate product. Here's an example of what a multiple product review page should be like:

You will want to make sure that you give the product you initially chose to promote in Step 1 the best review and the other products a less appealing review. This will make your #1 pick stand out as the best selection and will increase its credibility. I also recommend that you give ratings to each product across a few basic criteria. Make note that the criteria will need to be changed across different products and the below is just an example:

- Effectiveness – 5/5 stars
- Ease of Use – 4/5 stars
- Price – 5/5 stars
- Overall – 4.5/5 stars

Here is an example of a Multi-Product Review landing page that I setup for demonstration purposes. It has my main keyword as the title, and at the time of writing this report, this keyword was getting 256 searches/day according to Wordtracker:

<http://easy-weight-loss-for-teens1.blogspot.com/>

Other tips when writing your product reviews:

- Do not try too hard to sell the product. You want to write your reviews as a real person that wants to help others that were in the same position you were in. This will increase your credibility.
- Do not use your affiliate link too much. Try to “sprinkle” it throughout your review. Again, this is personal preference and may take some testing, but make sure you have it at least 2 times in your review – once in the beginning and definitely at the end.
- Make sure to not over-hype your reviews. Nothing is perfect. Adding a few small negative remarks, especially about your #1 pick will further increase your credibility and conversions.
- Do not overuse your keyword. This is another topic that has much debate around it, so again, personal preference comes into play. A good rule of thumb to follow is to use your keyword in the title, the anchor text, and the 1st and last paragraphs.

- Cloak your affiliate links and use anchor text. There are many free URL shorteners you can use.

HOT TIP – When creating your multiple product review page, grab an affiliate link for each product. Of course you will still write your reviews with the guidelines above, but having an affiliate link for each product will make you some extra money. You’d be surprised how many people will not choose your #1 pick but instead go for your #2 or #3 pick. Also putting a picture of a real person will make your review page seem more real and will build your trust with your customer that much more.

By now, you should have 5 products with 10-15 keywords each, as well as 5 landing pages (1 per product chosen in Step 1). Now we will move onto the final step – Traffic Generation.

Step 4 – My “Traffic Slam” Strategy

Now that you have your landing pages ready for traffic, you need to drive traffic to them. Although there are literally thousands of different ways to drive traffic, this report focuses on only 1. It’s devastatingly effective and FREE. I’m talking about bum marketing, but not in the “traditional” sense.

The traditional way most affiliate marketers do bum marketing is to submit keyword targeted articles to article directories. Of course those articles have their affiliate links in them.

The problem with this strategy is that there is no promotion involved. Sitting and waiting for Google to find your articles is not my style. I have a more “shove it in Google’s face” approach to bum marketing. My strategy takes bum marketing and puts it on steroids.

Here’s a quick breakdown:

1. Submit articles to popular article directories. This will help you rank well for your keyword as well as get instant traffic from the article directory itself.
2. Submit your content to web 2.0 properties. This helps with rankings for both your articles and your landing pages.

3. Promote all your content with pinging, bookmarking, and RSS submissions.

The main difference with my strategy and “traditional” bum marketing is that I don’t just write articles and leave them. I actually promote them as well as the promoters of my articles. This is referred to as “promoting the promoters” and is an extremely effective tactic, but there are not a lot of marketers doing this.

There are 2 major benefits to this.

1. You will build backlinks and authority to every article which will pass on to your landing pages.
2. It also lets Google know immediately about your content, and gives you instant visibility via bookmarking/rss feeds etc.

The whole process is a 3 day process that you keep repeating:

1. Day 1:

- Submit 15 articles (3 per product).
- Grab the URLs of your article submissions and their RSS feed URLs and save them to a notepad file with the date. (Note that some of the sites may not have an RSS feed. In that case, just skip the RSS for that site)
- Ping the articles.

2. Day 2:

- Submit 15 more articles, save the URLs like on Day 1, and ping them.
- Bookmark the URLs of the previous days’ articles (Day 1), grab the URLs of your bookmarks and ping them as well.

3. Day 3:

- Submit 15 more articles, save their URLs, and ping them.
- Bookmark the previous days’ URLs (Day 2) and then ping those URLs.
- Submit the RSS feed URLs from Day 1 to RSS Directories and ping these URLs.

4. Day 4:

- Repeat the process.

So basically all you are doing is submitting content/pinging>bookmarking the URLs the next day/pinging>submitting the RSS feeds the day after/pinging.

This traffic system will give you massive exposure and also allow you to crush your competition for ranking in Google. Google has no choice but to pay attention to your content since you will literally be shoving your content in Google's face.

Here are some tips that will help you get even better results:

1. Use multiple accounts on all networks.
2. Use proxies.
3. Spin your content.
4. Use software to help automate and save time.
5. Do not limit yourself to using only the sites I recommend. Continually add your own sites. The more you have in your arsenal, the better.
6. When you bookmark your content, be sure to write as if you are a 3rd party. DO NOT blatantly promote your own content.

Writing Tips

Video Marketing:

Video marketing is another very effective way to drive traffic to your landing pages. For those of you who think making a video is hard, it's not. Not to mention the benefits outweigh the small amount of time takes to create a video. For making videos you will need Camtasia studio. You can get a free trial can at their site here.

Now for making videos just follow the following steps :

1. Create 10 videos (1 video per article you created). Take 1 of your articles and paste it into Microsoft Power Point presentation 1 paragraph of 5-6 lines at a time.
2. Choose a nice background.
3. Play the presentation and let Camtasia studio record it for you. Camtasia supports recording Power Point presentations. You could also write unique articles for the videos telling the viewers about the features, benefits, testimonials etc. of your chosen product. Just use a little common sense and imagination and you will find it's not that hard to create videos.
4. Submit your videos using Tube Mogul. It's a free service that submits your videos to a bunch of networks at once for free. I use them all the time and recommend them highly.

Yahoo Answers:

It's really easy to drive traffic with Yahoo Answers, so I will not go into too much details since it is unnecessary. Just go to yahoo answers and answer the questions in your niche with a link to your landing page in the "sources" area. Just be sure you are posting like you are a 3rd party that "happened to find" your site. DO NOT post like you are promoting your site.

Another thing you can do is create multiple accounts and use one to ask a question and another to answer it. This is a very effective way of driving traffic, but some people look down on it. It's up to you whether to use it or not.

Forum Marketing:

1. Find a popular forum in your niche and post articles to it.
2. Answer questions and respond to appreciation.
3. Build a relationship and do not SPAM links. You will be banned the minute you are thought to be a spammer.
4. Include a link to your landing page in your signature.

This method does take some time, so don't rush it. However, the benefits are great in the long-term.

Twitter:

Twitter is a great way to drive traffic to your sites. Here is a simple yet deadly effective strategy that most people don't use:

1. Create 5 accounts on twitter.
2. Start adding friends, 50 a day to each of the accounts is fine for me. Adding more can raise a red flag and get your accounts banned.
3. Start tweeting. The trick is to sound natural. If you just spam your links, you will get banned.
4. Add a link back to your landing page once in every 3-5 tweets. This number is not set, so don't follow it exactly. The main point is you want to appear natural so that you can fly under the radar. When you post a tweet with your link, make sure you are posting like a 3rd party and not blatantly promoting your own site.

Article Speed Writing Tips:

Here are some tips that can help you effectively spit out good quality articles in 10 minutes or less. I am at the point where I can write 5 articles per hour, and you should really aim to get to that point as well. Remember, the whole idea behind my Traffic Slam strategy is to saturate the market with your content.

The more content you can spit out, the faster you will get results.

1. Do not think – Thinking too much will hinder your ability to write fast. Once you have your topic, just start writing. You can clean up after the article is complete.
2. Keep it short and simple – You are not trying to write a book. Think of your articles as a teaser to get your reader interested enough to click your links. That's all they really are. I find 350 words works perfect. Follow this template and you will find it even easier:
 - Introduction: 1 paragraph. The intro will set the tone for your article. A good intro tells the reader what the article is about.
 - Body: 2-3 paragraphs. This is the “meat” of your article. A good way to write your body is to write in a problem/solution manner. Present a problem that your target market faces, and then present a solution.
 - Closing: 1 paragraph. Simply summarize what your article was about. Don't forget to use the closing to peak your reader's interest. This is what will warm them up to clicking your link.
3. Do not stop writing until you have completed your daily goal. This will ensure that you get them all done, and you will feel great once all your work for the day is done. If you can't sit down for that long, you might split them up i.e. 5 articles => short break => 5 articles=> short break => 5 articles. I wouldn't split them up more than this. You will get distracted and this will lead to failure.
4. Rewrite articles that are already created for your chosen keyword. Just search your keyword in Google and/or article directories, read through the top 2-3, take notes, and then write your own version. DO NOT plagiarize.

Learning to write 5 articles in an hour will take practice, but if you follow the tips above, writing 5 articles in an hour will eventually become 2nd nature to you.
