A plane prevented them from seeing each other and the machines collided with an awful impact. Plegnan was picked up dead. Dubois lived an hour.

HARRISON APPLES. That nice, clean, large summer apples can be grown in this county has been demonstrated by H. H. Turner, who brought several baskets to town Wednesday and found ready sale for them. They are yellow, large for the kind and without a blemish. Mr. Turner says they were picked from trees which he planted three years ago when they were two years of age, and that one of these young trees in particular is bearing heavily. They are the prettiest home grown apples ever seen in Marshall.

PARKER DESPITE BRYAN OPPOSITION

Baltimore, June 20.—It is authoritatively stated at 10 o'clock this morning that a majority of the arrangements committee which is meeting here today to fix temporary offices of the democratic national convention of Judge Alton B. Parker for temporary chairman despite Bryan's opposition.

2:45 p. m.—Judge Parker has been named as temporary chairman. FIRST BOLLS OF COTTON. John Henderson has brought to The Messenger office a stalk of cotton bearing blooms, squares and bolls. It was grown south of the city, and while not a large plant owing to the conditions this season, it is thrifty and promises to do well. The number of blooms, squares and bolls indicates a good yield.

TO HIGHEST COURT. Austin, Tex., June 18.—The Ennis water works case is to go to the United States supreme court.

BOOSTER BANQUET. All preparations for the big banquet of the Marshall Boosters Club are about completed. Mayor Caven has secured permission for the closing of Austin street between Bolivar and Washington avenues. The street will be thoroughly cleaned and the tables spread in the center of the street. The tickets are now going very fast and citizens should secure their tickets as early as possible in order to assist the committee to make accurate preparation for the number who are to be present. Tickets may be had at the Booster Club office, at Mr. P. Littlejohn's insurance office or the Marshall National Bank. There will be a number of distinguished speakers who are experts in their line. The menu will far exceed the small cost per plate. The one idea of the banquet is to boost Marshall.

Texarkana 4, Paris 2. Special to The Messenger. Paris, Tex., June 20.—The score: Texarkana 4, Paris 2. The game was played at 2:30 p. m. and was declared a forfeit by the Tyler nine. It was announced that the second game would be called an hour after the time for the first game, and at 4:15 Umpire Page called the game. Tyler was not on the field and the second game was also forfeited to Longview.

Longview-Tyler, two games forfeited to Longview. The Longview team failed to provide two new balls as per league requirements and Tyler had the right to refuse to play with used ones, consequently base balls were brought to Longview from Marshall in automobiles and would have been here on time had it not been for the bad roads encountered on the way.

Cleburne 24, Marshall 15. Cleburne, Tex., June 20.—Marshall and Cleburne each took one hard contested game in the double-header played at Cleburne park yesterday. The first Cleburne won with a score of 24 to 15. It was a pitcher's affair for the most part, with Harbin twirling for the locals and Gutierrez for Marshall. In the second game Marshall carried off the honors in a seven-inning game, score 15 to 4. The shot, Texas discovered that the Cleburne club in the third inning, and pulled four men to the home plate in short order. Cleburne scored the runner on Bennett of Marshall in the fifth, but in the sixth inning the Cleburne club was again victorious.

TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION IS MADE PERMANENT

Credentials Committee Refusing to Unseat Any of the Taft Delegates—Statement by Roosevelt

Chicago, 4:42.—At four convention adjourned immediately until eleven tomorrow because credentials committee unable to report.

Chicago, June 20.—The convention met at 1:20 p. m. and adjourned at 1:24 until 4 o'clock, to give the credentials committee time to work the steam roller.

Permanent Organization. Reported by Associated Press. Chicago, June 20.—By a vote of 22 to 7 the permanent organization committee voted to make the temporary organization permanent. This would continue Root as chairman throughout the convention.

Seating Taft Delegates. Reported by Associated Press. Chicago, June 20.—Credentials committee: A motion to seat two Roosevelt delegates from Fourth Alabama district, defeated 34 to 14. St. Clair of Idaho, Roosevelt man and Cady of Wisconsin, voted against the Roosevelt delegates.

The committee seated the two Taft delegates from the Ninth Alabama district by vote 34 to 12.

Dixon Makes Statement. Reported by Associated Press. Chicago, June 20, 1:32 p. m.—After a conference with Roosevelt, Dixon said, "The American people and republican voters have nominated Roosevelt, and his followers will not recognize the national convention until it purges itself of seventy-eight stolen delegates."

Felt in Washington. Washington, June 20.—The tension of the situation at Chicago is reflected today at the White House, though the president apparently is not discouraged. He declined to see newspaper men until the situation is clarified. This action indicates a new move contemplated by the president's forces.

Report from Chicago Taft had authorized release of his delegates immediately denied.

William Flynn, now the Pennsylvania national committee, today confirmed the report that he has left the regular republican organization, after an all-night conference with the Roosevelt leaders. "I am done with that committee," he said. H. G. Wason, Flynn's lieutenant, has been chosen as his successor.

At ten thirty this morning Colonel Roosevelt released his delegates from all obligations to support him. He will not withdraw from the fight.

Practically all talk of a compromise candidate came from Roosevelt followers. There is evidence early today of nearly a complete disintegration of Roosevelt's forces. They appear to be fighting desperately. The conference of last night convinced the Roosevelt leaders that comparatively few would desert the republican party. Serious dissension exists in the Roosevelt camp. Many are frank in the declaration that the colonel acted too hastily in coming to Chicago, and in precipitating the bolt from the credentials committee last night. It is stated that there is little to be made of the nomination of the Roosevelt program today.

The Roosevelt conservatives hoped the convention, when it met at noon, would adjourn until four o'clock. Roosevelt followers in nearly all state delegations were busy until four this morning, and it is said that Lucian L. Taylor, an ardent Roosevelt man, had helped in plan of starting bolt for Hughes. The Roosevelt forces were little fearful as to how Taft people would receive a compromise proposition. It is also talked that some of the Taft followers, satisfied with having defeated Roosevelt, would take a man who had some chance of bringing the factions together.

Francis J. Heney said, "The fight against thieves has just begun."

Denial by Roosevelt. Reported by Associated Press. Chicago, June 20.—Col. Roosevelt denies he released his delegates.

Says Delegate Released. Reported by Associated Press. Chicago, June 20, 1:30 p. m.—Ex-Gov. Regis Post of Porto Rico announced that Roosevelt had released his delegates. Half hour after this statement by Post, O. K. Davis, from Roosevelt headquarters, announced: "Roosevelt authorities me to say that any statement that he had released his delegates is absolutely untrue." Some proceeded on the theory that Post's statement is correct.

Roosevelt's followers returned to the credentials committee at the colonel's suggestion. One hour and a half was consumed in presenting Roosevelt's side of the case in Ninth Alabama district. There is little chance to conclude the contest hearings in time to make a report today.

Police force in coliseum nearly doubled today.

The efforts made to induce the Illinois delegates to join the bolt continued to 3 o'clock this morning, but failed.

The California delegates this morning prepared a resolution announcing their withdrawal from the convention. It is said they would not be bound by the action of a "lot of thieves."

Roosevelt members of the credentials committee agreed in conference to rush only Arizona, California, Texas and Washington cases. Forty-eight delegates in all. This is done to shorten the session. Total number involved in the Hadley resolution is twenty-two.

Hadley Motion Referred to Committee by a Voice Vote. Reported by Associated Press. Chicago, June 19.—The demonstration was finally changed into a great "We want Teddy." Mrs. W. A. Davis, a beautiful woman in white, in gallery, started this Roosevelt demonstration by waving the colonel's picture. Old timers talked of stampede.

The Taft forces won their second decisive victory when Gov. Denison moved that none but uncontested delegates vote on Hadley's motion to seat the ninety-two Roosevelt delegates. Denison's motion was tabled 560 to 510.

The Hadley motion was referred by a viva voce to the credentials committee and the convention adjourned until tomorrow noon.

ROOSEVELTIANS COME BACK. Meeting With Others of the Credentials Committee. Reported by Associated Press. Chicago, June 20.—The Roosevelt members of the credentials committee unexpectedly appeared to take part in the proceedings of that body when the committee met this morning. Last night all except one Roosevelt member left this committee meeting, precipitating rumors of a bolt.

Bryan Not Opposed. Reported by Associated Press. Chicago, June 20.—W. J. Bryan denies emphatically that he opposed the selection of Judge Parker as temporary chairman of the Democratic convention.

ROOSEVELT FORCES PROTEST. Hadley Leading Debate Relative to the Chairman's Ruling Tuesday. Chicago, June 19.—The air of nervousness that hung over the convention yesterday was absent today. One hour before convention less than two hundred spectators and only eight delegates were in hall.

Gov. Hadley said there would be no change in the program of the Roosevelt forces.

Chairman Root announced that an agreement had been reached between Watson and Hadley for a three hours' debate on the proposition to substitute the roll of ninety-two Roosevelt delegates in place of the ninety-two Taft followers seated by committee.

Taft followers seated by committee. Gov. Hadley opened the debate, referring to the chairman's ruling yesterday. He said, "We could have met immediately and forcibly rejected this arbitrary and unconstitutional ruling. A sentiment that was roundly cheered. 'We could have forcibly insisted on a roll call and could have forcibly taken control. Instead we chose patiently to wait until today.'"

Gov. Hadley read a statement from fourteen members of the National committee protesting against the majority's action in seating the delegates, especially in California and Texas. He made an earnest plea that personalities be left out of the debate, declaring the question purely a matter of principle, and one that embraced even the existence of the republican party.

W. T. Dwyer of Taft forces followed.

Hadley Answered. Senator Hemenway of Indiana, speaking against the Hadley motion, attacked the men who signed the protest. He insisted that only thirteen had signed it although Hadley said fourteen. Taking up Texas case, he said Cecil Ryan controlled 160 federal appointments in Texas, that his word has been law, but that this year republicans of other factions had sent delegates not of Ryan's officeholders.

From the Pennsylvania delegation came yells, "How about Penrose?" Bending over, shaking his fist in the faces of the delegation Mr. Hemenway shouted: "Give me Penrose before Flynn every time."

tion on a point of order. "State the point." "The point is the mention of the personality of Penrose and Flynn is not in order." "The gentleman's point is not well taken. He seated at once," ruled Root.

Flynn sat down. Tension Relaxed. George L. P. Record of New Jersey, for the Roosevelt side, followed Hemenway. Record expressed doubt of the convention in Arizona. He declared that in two counties the Taft men had been in the minority and had selected their own delegates to the state convention. Recognition of these contesting delegates, he said, gave the Taft forces control of the convention.

Moosers Wake Up. An outbreak in the Indiana delegation followed the assertion by Mr. Record that in one district of Indianapolis returns were made up by the officials without even opening a ballot box. Wm. E. English, a delegate, leaped to his feet and the entire delegation broke into uproar.

"There's no contest in that district," shouted English, wildly waving his fist in the air. "You know there was no contest there."

William Dye, a Roosevelt delegate in Indiana delegation, sprang up and shouted at English. The latter yelled back, "Liar, liar," and started toward Dye. Other members seized the men and kept them apart. In the full Mayor Shanks of Indianapolis shouted from the stage to Record, "If you keep on you'll get a scrap out of me."

Henry Allen of Kansas, for Col. Roosevelt, while talking was challenged to say whether he intended to support the nominees of the convention. He said he would under the condition that "his nomination was not accomplished by fraud and thievery."

Great uproar, with cheering and shouting followed.

Delegate Newcomb of New York, belated a point of order against the interruption. The chair sustained the point and asked for fair play. Allen was cheered by the Rooseveltians and laughed at by the Taft adherents. Tension seemed to relax everywhere.

ROOSEVELT ON FLOOR. Question of Admissibility Discussed. Plans Left Untouched. Reported by Associated Press. Chicago, June 19.—It is understood the question discussed at a conference of Roosevelt leaders today related to the advisability of the colonel going into the convention hall to direct the fight at close range. This was taken over at some length but it was decided to temporarily at least to follow the plan pursued yesterday. Roosevelt has been supplied with a bunch of tickets admitting "bearer" to seats on platform. Where they came from was not given out.

REPUBLICAN ROW STARTED. First Fight Was Precipitated Over the Temporary Organization. Chicago, June 18.—One hour before the convention Senator Borah announced that Governor McGovern of Wisconsin would be the Roosevelt candidate for temporary chairman.

Police men guarded every aisle and corner of the hall before the doors were opened. The police themselves were so nervous they attempted to arrest a long string of assistant sergeants at arms before discovering their identity. Numerous prominent persons were unable to get into the hall for lack of tickets.

The convention went into session at 12:02 amidst great confusion. Police men were sent to different parts of the hall. Order was restored at 12:15.

The Temporary Roll. Gov. Hadley of Missouri rose to question of information and asked if the temporary roll call had been prepared.

Watson of Indiana, the Taft floor leader, raised the point of order that no business is in order till the convention is organized. (Loud cheers.) The chairman ruled Watson's point well taken.

Gov. Hadley said he asked for information only. Then he moved that the temporary roll call be amended by removing the names of certain delegates and substituting others.

Watson's point was sustained. Then each side was given twenty minutes to debate the question.

The convention cheered as Gov. Hadley supporting his motion, declared: "Any candidate named by this convention unfairly will have a tainted candidacy."

Two Taft delegates from the fourth district of California today clamored for credentials in vain, the Roosevelt Californians contending that they would take the Roosevelt delegation into the convention. They were finally seated with the Alabama delegates.

First Blood for Taft. The Taft men drew first blood when Chairman Roosevelt ruled out of order a demand for amending the temporary roll, preventing a vote by the convention on the Roosevelt proposition. Confusion prevailed. The chairman's voice was scarcely audible. Gov. Hadley appealed from the chairman's decision.

Roosewater presented the names of Elithu Root for temporary chairman. Mr. Cochen of Wisconsin named Governor McGovern in opposition.

EAST TEXAS IRON ATTRACTS ATTENTION

HIGH DEPOSITS EXIST IN NINE-TEEN COUNTIES OF THAT DISTRICT—PROSPECTORS ARE BUSY

(By Frank R. Briggs, Staff Correspondent of the Dallas News.)

This is the third of a series of articles dealing with the resources, development and opportunities of East Texas. Previous articles appeared May 31 and June 2.

Nature was exceedingly generous to East Texas. Develop the deposits of glass sand, oil, gas and clays utilizing the products in connection with the great timber supply, in manufacturing and this entire area of Texas would become a bee-hive of industry. The material is there and has been for ages. It has been waiting the time when the needs of commerce demand its transformation into power and into useful commodities. Early in the history of East Texas men looked upon the great deposits of ore and predicted a time when it would become valuable. Perhaps the time for the fulfillment of those prophecies has been delayed, but signs of activity are becoming more distinct. There is reason to believe that this hidden wealth will be brought into the channels of trade to the people, and that, too, within a period of less than a decade.

East Texas Iron Ores.

It is not the intention of the writer to review the history of the attempts to develop East Texas iron ore deposits, nor to be technical in the handling of the subject. The object of this article is to emphasize the fact that rich deposits exist that there is a probability of active work in development in the near future.

Surveys of the iron ore deposits in East Texas have never been complete, and the probable amount of tonnage available is a matter of estimate only. In this connection, we quote Dr. William B. Phillips, director of the University of Texas bureau of economic geology, in "The Iron Age":

"The work that has been prosecuted during the last two years and which is still in progress has shown, among other important things, that the extent of the very good and extra ore is much larger than anyone had reason to anticipate. Ground which did not appear to be ore-bearing at all, in a commercial sense, has been found to carry very considerable deposits of ore with more than 50 per cent of iron ore, and under such conditions that it can be mined and loaded for less than $1 a ton. The greater part of these ore are not held in tenacious clay. This is a point much in their favor, as it will diminish in a marked degree the cost of preparing them for shipment. The record of about 2,500 tons, mined with any special care, neither washed nor screened, shows a content of metallic iron about 57 per cent, with phosphorus ranging from .10 to .20 per cent. The clays with which these ore are so closely associated are sandy, friable, of loose texture, and easily removed over a screen or in an ordinary log washer. This means a minimum amount of water and maximum amount of ore per cubic yard of raw dirt."

Texas Iron Consumption.

The consumption of pig iron in Texas is estimated at 250 to 300 tons per day, inclusive of all grades. This comes from Alabama, Ohio, Colorado, Pennsylvania and elsewhere. In addition, there is a very large consumption of rolled iron and steel in various forms; in cotton ties, wire fencing, concrete work. The question of a local market for iron and steel products made from Texas ore is important. That the demand is large and growing cannot be disputed. All of those commodities are now imported, paying railroad hauls of from 500 to 1,500 miles. The saving of freights should add considerably to the gross and net receipts of the iron industry, should it once be established.

Use of Texas Ores.

An active interest is again being displayed in Texas iron ore. Notwithstanding the fact that Texas iron furnaces have thus far proved failures, from a dividend-paying standpoint, three companies are again actively engaged in prospecting East Texas fields and making plans for the mining of ore.

The American Iron Company, chartered for $200,000, has plans for improving and enlarging the furnace at Jefferson, Marion County. It expects to use Oklahoma coke and turn out 100 tons of pig iron per day. Previous operation of this furnace were failures from a financial standpoint. Chemical has always been used in smelting. As Oklahoma and Arkansas coke within convenient distance, it is believed that the expense of operation will be greatly reduced from former experiences. It is further understood that this company will erect a steel mill at some convenient point and manufacture cotton ties and other steel articles from the product of their Jefferson furnace.

Eastern steel interests have secured control of large iron deposits in Cass, Marion, Upshur and other counties with the object of making ore shipments to Philadelphia. Ore docks have been completed at Port Bolivar, a suburb of Galveston, and a railroad constructed from Longview into the ore fields, connecting at Longview with the Santa Fe line into Port Bolivar. One shipment of ore has been made, but regular work of mining has not been started, pending the completion of the railroad and preliminary preparations for the fields.

It has been rumored that the plans of this company include the construction of a steel plant on the coast near

Galveston in which coke will be used, shipments to be made by water from Alabama. Should such materialize, the development of East Texas iron deposits would be assured. Located near Galveston and Houston, there would be a market for the surplus gas, while the fertilizer plans could handle the ammoniacal liquor. Markets would have to be established for other by-products, such as tar, which would come in competition with the asphalt, derived from the refining of crude oil.

Suggests East Texas.

In a recent article, Dr. Phillips suggested more need for small steel works for the manufacture of cotton ties and other light steel articles, in connection with blast furnaces, as more practical than large steel works. He suggests East Texas as the proper location for such industries. We quote him as follows:

"Iron and steel works of the size to make profitable use of by-product ore are not now needed in Texas or the Southwest. Instead, it seems to us that a blast furnace plant producing 250 to 300 tons of pig iron a day with a steel plant whose product would enter into the lighter, finished forms is much more to the point. The initial investment would be much less and the character of the product could be kept in closer touch with actual demands. The logical location for such a plant would be East or Northwest Texas, in close proximity to the ore fields and within reach of the coking coal of Oklahoma and Arkansas. So far as known there is no good coking coal in Texas and the nearer an iron furnace is to regular supplies of coke the better. Coking coal or coke will have to be brought in from some other State."

Smelting by Electricity.

An article appearing in the daily papers a few months ago suggested a new method of smelting iron ore by electricity, stating the experiment had proved successful. If such a method ever becomes practical the coke question in connection with East Texas iron will become less bothersome. Electric plants, using producers' gas, could be located at or near East Texas lignite mines and the electricity transported over wires to the iron and steel plants. Lignite is well distributed in East Texas and plants could be properly located without trouble. Thus use would be found for another East Texas mineral which exists in almost inexhaustible quantities.

East Texas Iron Deposits.

Iron ore deposits exist in the following East Texas counties: Anderson, Camp, Cass, Cherokee, Gregg, Harrison, Henderson, Houston, Marion, Nacogdoches, Panola, Rusk, Sabine, San Augustine, Shelby, Upshur, Van Zandt, and Wood.

After her marriage she moved to Tennessee, where two of her children were born. She and her husband then made their home in Hallville. Mrs. Davis is survived by three children, Mrs. D. E. Buchanan of Hallville, Mrs. E. E. Thompson, of Quanah, Texas, and Mr. E. B. Davis of Point, Texas; a sister, Mrs. C. C. Collins of Marshall; twenty-four grandchildren, thirty-two great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren, and a number of other relatives. She was for seventy-five years a member of the Christian church, and until about three months ago attended morning service regularly, walking to church. She was a very devout Christian woman. The funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon, June 18th, by Rev. Mr. Chisholm, of the Christian church. Mrs. Davis will be sadly missed by the many to whom her brightness and energy and enterprising reminiscences of an interesting lifetime were familiar for so many years. The following Marshall relatives went to the funeral: Mrs. E. H. Hill and Mrs. T. J. Hillard, granddaughters and their families; Mr. H. J. Womack and Mrs. Mattie Mahone, nieces, and Virginia Mahone, grandniece.

Mrs. Lizzie J. Jones.

V. C. Barnes received a telegram Wednesday morning stating that his wife's mother, Mrs. Lizzie J. Jones, died at Victoria, La., at 11 o'clock. She will be buried at the family burying ground near Waskom, but the time has not been set.

Died of Meningitis.

Wals Clemens, six-year-old boy, who lived about a mile south of Marshall, died of meningitis Monday, and his remains were shipped to Atlanta, Texas, on train Number four Tuesday morning. He had been ill several months.

MARRIAGES

Rowe-Eason.

Mr. Chas. M. Rowe and Miss Ewing Eason of Overton, Texas, were married in Longview, Texas, Sunday afternoon, June 16, 1912, at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Will Eason. They came to Marshall Monday morning, and are now keeping house on West Rusk street, in one of the Barnes cottages. While the bride is a stranger in Marshall, there are many friends and relatives of the groom who were her friends in Marshall, and church circles. Mr. Rowe having been a resident of Marshall all his life. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rowe, and for years has been a faithful and efficient employee of the Electric Light company here.

Heckel-Alford.

Miss Linda Alford, daughter of Mrs. Addie Alford, was married at noon Wednesday to Mr. Albert G. Heckel of Cartersville, Ill., Rev. W. T. Tardy performing the ceremony in the presence of a large number of guests and close friends of the bride and her family. No formal invitations had been issued, but as Miss Linda was born and reared in Marshall and is a young lady of exceptional worth, she counts her friends by the hundreds. This was testified by the number of presents of silver, cut glass, China and other ware which were displayed on three or four tables in the dining room.

Shortly after the hour appointed Miss Ruby Wood began the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march. The groom entered the parlor of the Alford home from a room across the hall, accompanied by Mr. Joe Alford, his best man, and from another room on the same floor, crossing the main hall, came the bridesmaids and their escorts, Misses Eugene and Annie Alford, Mr. Frank Alford of Shreveport and Mr. George Joseph of St. Louis, a friend of the groom, followed by the bride in a gray traveling costume on the arm of the matron of honor, Mrs. George Volz. They formed in a semi-circle beneath a wreath of joined hearts formed of daisies and bamboo which was pendant from the chandelier. After the brief ceremony those present surrounded the newly married pair and showered kisses on the bride and congratulated the groom on having won so excellent a prize. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were then served.

The rooms were decorated in very simple fashion with roses, daisies and other bright flowers in vases, while bamboo was gracefully placed about the mantels and over the chandeliers and drop lights, producing an effect that was wholly charming.

In the main hall Mrs. P. O. Beard presided over the punch bowl, and on a table in the same apartment was a guest book where all present registered their names for future reference by the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Heckel left on an afternoon train for Hot Springs and from there will go to Memphis, and St. Louis and then to their home at Cartersville, Ill.

INFORMATION FOR WOMEN WHO VOTE.

Things That Every Woman Should Know Before She Is Qualified to Cast Her Ballot.

As a matter of fact, it doesn't make much difference whether a woman votes or not, she should feel it a duty to know all she can learn about our great and glorious country.

There is one sure way to get this information. Clip or tear out the first-page headlines from this paper and bring them to this office and get the Standard Atlas and Chronological History of the World which The Messenger is presenting to its readers.

A most interesting subject in this Atlas takes up the various branches of the executive, legislative and judicial departments at Washington and gives one an inside view of the official machinery. It gives the salaries, duties and powers of the President, Vice President, cabinet members, senators and representatives and contains a considerable amount of interesting data relative to the civil service commission.

It isn't necessary for a woman to vote in order to have use for this information, but if she ever does vote she will certainly use it.

All you have to do to get this book is to present its headlines clipped from the first page of The Messenger with this to our staff of editors, who will be glad to send you the book.

As explained in the Standard Messenger, a woman qualified to vote in this country is entitled to a copy of this book.

SHADE OF JIM HOGG TO PEOPLE'S RESCUE.

OPINION WRITTEN IN 1888 DIRECTING THE COMPTROLLER TO SCAN FEE BILLS PRESENTED.

Austin Tribune.—James S. Hogg, know his meaning. He did not invoke as, wrote Jno. D. McCall, then comptroller, on the matter of allowing a bill of costs amounting to $2500, presented by a district clerk and a sheriff, that he would be justified in refusing to audit or allow such and every item of such account on the ground of "fraud." And he further said:

"It is quite proper on this point that the comptroller should be furnished all the facts in the premises before acting on accounts."

This opinion, covering many pages of letter paper, is in the governor's own handwriting, and goes exhaustively into the question of the comptroller's duties where he has reason to doubt the correctness of the fee bill. Judge A. W. Terrell recalled the fact that Hogg had written such an opinion and the Tribune spent some time searching the archives of the attorney general's office for the manuscript.

Characteristics of Hogg.

The opinion is characteristic and deals with the palpable fraud of the case in plain language. In one place he said:

"Indications are strong, amounting almost to proof, that many of the defendants mentioned in the accounts have been indicted jointly, if at all."

"The sheriff's account is for fees claimed to be due for services in one hundred and sixty cases, including those mentioned in the clerk's claim, and thirty-two were continued. Of these, seventy-eight are for conspiracy to commit murder and three for conspiracy to commit arson. The crime of conspiracy can not be committed by one person alone, yet in most of the cases an appearance from the account under consideration, the accused were separately indicted, though in some instances as many as eight of the same parties were included in one bill. From a careful analysis of the accounts by comparison of the names of the accused, dates and class of offenses, number and names of witnesses, issuance and service of process, it is quite evident that a few men have been plastered all over with indictments, both jointly and severally, individually and collectively, in pairs and groups, so that a few offenses to begin with have multiplied on paper in the end to an astonishing number."

Words Not Mined.

James S. Hogg was not a man to mince words when graft was at work. He wrote English so that a fool might know his meaning. He did not invoke the constitution, but he told the comptroller, good old John D. McCall, who hated a grafter, that he was "respectfully advised to require all accounts presented . . . for fees due . . . to show and to satisfy you that they are both in law and in fact due from the state."

Nor is this the only opinion on this subject which has been rendered on this subject. General Davidson and other attorney generals have taken the same view, and a long line of comptrollers have followed this practice.

It will be remembered that R. W. Finley was defeated by a cabal which drew its source in the feebler grafters of Texas. The late Comptroller Love used Finley's attitude toward fee-grabbers to get the office for himself, but the records show that Mr. Love and his successor both followed the precedents laid down by prior administrations for the safeguarding of the public funds.

Respect For Hogg's Opinion.

There have been general department attorneys in the past, but the people of Texas would show more respect to the opinions of the supreme court than they have for the opinions of the able lawyers who have filled the attorney general's office. The memory of James S. Hogg is held dear by the people of Texas, because he always stood against invading the treasury through official or other graft. The opinion of the supreme court in order to deny the constitutionality of the law which provided for the great commoner whose opinion is directly contrary to the opinion of the court.

People Alarmed.

The court's recent opinion has thoroughly alarmed many people, who see in it its effect the organized raids to be made on the public cash box. Already agents in Austin are soliciting the claims of officers who have been "turned down" by the comptroller, and there will be a swarm of old claims presented for payment, doubtless running back as far as the statute of limitations will permit them to go.

When these claims are presented and filed, the Tribune will make a point of giving them publication, that the people may know something of the proportions to which this raid is likely to approach.

The supreme court may entrench itself behind the dignity of its prestige, but the people will be slow to believe the tremendous steal that is certain to follow upon the heels of its decision.

PRETTY GIRL TAKES CARBOLIC ROUTE

CLOSEST FRIEND DOESN'T KNOW WHY HANDSOME NELLIE ANDERSON KILLED HERSELF

MY WORTH RECORD, June 11.

"I have taken carbolie acid, Mrs. McNeill, I am going to die," were the last words of Miss Nellie Anderson, a pretty girl of 24, stenographer for George G. McGowan, uttered two minutes after she had taken the fatal dose in the home of Mrs. W. S. Smiley, 512 South Jennings avenue, where she boarded, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Twenty minutes later she was dead.

Mystery shrouds the motive for Miss Anderson's act, although she had twice forwarded her closest friend.

"Life doesn't look good to me," she told Miss Edith Everett, her roommate. She said that she intended to kill herself. Her confidant tried to cheer her, not believing she would actually injure herself.

Miss Anderson failed to go to work yesterday morning. Instead, she telephoned Mr. McGowan, that she was suffering with a headache. She said she would be ill right today.

During the day she purchased four ounces of carbolie acid at the Transfer Drug Company. This she put in her handbag. She then visited an office of the First National bank building, where Miss Everett worked as stenographer.

Chum Knew Something was Wrong.

Miss Everett, pale and nerve-racked, was seen at Mrs. Smiley's home last night and recounted to a Record reporter her knowledge of the affair.

"I first saw there was something wrong," she said. "Nellie seemed blue and despondent almost all day and she told me last night that she was tired of living, that life held nothing for her and that she was going to kill herself. I didn't believe she would do it. I thought she would be all right after a night's sleep, but I tried to comfort her as best I could."

"This morning she said she was going to kill herself," she remarked. "Oh, I guess you wouldn't do anything like that," and then tried again to cheer her up, but she seemed very blue.

"Once I tried to take her handbag, asking what she had in it, but she wouldn't let me have it. Then I laughingly tried again, but she clung to it and would not tell me what was in it. I do not know whether she had already purchased that acid with which she killed herself or not."

"The young man was paying her marked attention, I am sure."

Miss Anderson, whose family resided in Marshall, was employed in Fort Worth in 1909 as stenographer for Hodge & Pemberton. She remained with this firm until January of the present year, giving up her position suddenly. She was later employed by George D. McGowan.

Made Dramatic End.

Miss Anderson swallowed the acid in her own room at Mrs. Smiley's home. An instant later she ran down the hallway to the room occupied by Mrs. J. H. McNeill and there told what she had done, throwing up her hands in an instant later and sinking to the floor.

HEAVY RAINFALL.

SAVED THE CORN.

GREAT ASSISTANCE TO OTHER GROWING VEGETATION IN THIS COUNTY—MORE OATS THAN USUAL.

A nice rain started about 6 o'clock Monday evening and fell nearly all night with but very few intermissions. Quite a lot of water fell, and the good it did to the county is great. Farmers say that the corn is so late that rain is the only salvation. With the exclusion of the excessive rains in the early part of the season, this year has been a remarkably successful one to people in agricultural pursuits.

Many of the farmers say that the high price of feed and the low price of cotton have a tendency to reduce the cotton acreage and increase the feed acreage. One has not been raised in any considerable quantities heretofore, but heretofore more of it will likely be raised.

Texas Taft men in caucus ousted Cecil Lyon as National committee man. Texas Roosevelt men held separate caucus and plan battle to overturn the rival camp.

Gov. Deneen notifies Roosevelt that Illinois delegates will insist upon lawful and orderly proceedings in the convention and will resist any attempt to seize control by force.

No additional converts reported by Roosevelt camp. Fifteen Roosevelt delegates said to have intimated that instructions should be as binding upon Southern delegates as they are upon Northern delegates indicating they would bolt to Taft if the "gunshow" hunt for shabby delegates continued.

Talk of a dark horse candidate increases; late arrivals among the delegates insisting neither Taft nor Roosevelt could win.

Roosevelt managers in first positive prediction in figures say Roosevelt will win on first ballot by majority of forty-two. Roosevelt men declare not a single elected delegate seated by the National committee will sit in the convention. The alternative is a separate convention.

TUESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Vote on Temporary Chairman 558 to 502.

Chicago, June 19.—Against the threats, charges and bitter invective of the Roosevelt forces, Taft supporters in the Republican National Convention put through the first portion of their program by electing Senator Elihu Root of New York temporary chairman. In spite of the fact that Victor Roosevelt, chairman of the National committee, consistently ruled out of order every motion made by the Roosevelt forces, it required more than five hours to reach a vote on the temporary chairmanship.

Calling of the roll was beset with difficulties from the very first name on the list of delegates, but in the end, when the tumult had died away, Senator Root was found to have won by a vote of 558 to 502 for Gov. Francis C. McGovern of Wisconsin, with fourteen scattering votes and four not voting.

Both the Taft and Roosevelt forces claimed this vote indicates that the candidate is absolutely sure to win. The advantage appears to be with the president, however, for while he is sure to lose some of the votes that were cast for Senator Root, it is claimed he will gain, if instructions are given to some of the votes independent of Mr. McGovern.

Those leaders, who have been urging a compromise candidate ever since they arrived in Chicago point to another angle in these figures and claim they show that it is essential to name a so-called "dark horse" to save the day for the Republican party.

NO COMPROMISE.

Chicago, June 19.—Senator Penrose said this morning: "There is nothing to the compromise talk. We will have more votes to reject proposition to upset the legal roll than we had yesterday."

Taft leaders declare there will be no compromise. Gov. Hadley, backed by Gov. Deneen, made a statement that he would not sanction a bolt under any circumstances. Colonel Roosevelt is in absolute charge of his forces.

WOMEN AT CONVENTION.

Chicago, June 19.—Many women were at the coliseum today, among them Mrs. Charles F. Taft and daughter, Mrs. Theodore Taft, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, Mrs. Henry Taft, Colonel Roosevelt asked that a body guard be supplied Mrs. Roosevelt and three detectives are attending the Roosevelt family.

An anti-suffragist delegation was on hand to appear in an effort to counteract the efforts of the suffragists, who want a plank in the platform.

Taft Apparently is Gaining Strength

Vote on Motion to Adopt Partial Credentials Committee Report Showed 605 to 464 for Taft Side

Reported by Associated Press.
Chicago, June 21.—The convention's assembling was delayed this morning by the question as to whether a special report would be made to the convention by the credentials committee in view of the fact that the committee's labors are from complete. Hadley said the Alabama and Arizona contests would be reported at once. The convention was called to order at 12:25.

The report of the committee recommending the seating of the Taft delegates in the Ninth Alabama district was offered. A minority report sustaining Roosevelt contestants offered and Hadley moved it be substituted for majority report.

W. T. Doyell of Washington, submitted the credentials committee majority report. R. R. McCormick, a Roosevelt leader, jumped up demanding recognition. Chairman Root, however, had the report read. McCormick said the majority report had been "sprung" without proper time for a minority report.

"There could be, strictly speaking, no such thing as a minority report," he said. "Instantly a storm of hisses and boos broke out. Unanimous consent was given McCormick to take the platform. He then presented the minority report.

Before the roll call started the chairman ruled that only the two Alabama delegates involved would not be permitted to vote. When California was called it announced 34 noes. The chairman ordered the roll call on the other two names of the missing Taft delegation. The result was challenged when the delegates were called by names.

Gov. Hadley introduced a resolution to prevent contested delegates voting. The motion was tabled by the vote of 564 to 510.

Announcement of Taft gains started a demonstration by the Taft people which the chairman stopped. The vote was 605 to 464. Wisconsin gave a solid vote of twenty-five to the Taft side.

The vote for temporary chairman was 558 to 502 Tuesday. The Alabama minority report was tabled.

The minority report was tabled in the Arizona contest, 564 to 497, not voting, 17.

The Fifth Arkansas district report, favorable to Taft, was adopted after the minority report had been tabled without a roll call.

HENRY WALDROP MADE STATEMENT

DISAGREEMENT THAT LED TO KILLING GREW OUT OF AN ALLEGED DEBT OF $15.

INDIAN RUNNER DUCKS.

Writer Says They Are Truly of the Leghorn Family.

To The Messenger.

It oftentimes happens in the poultry world that we find some breed of fowls that comes so many good qualities that it comes rapidly into public favor, and that it loses out because the boom was too much, but not so with the Indian Runner Duck, they have come to stay and what lacks this fowl is not enough praise.

This breed of fowl, the Indian Runner Duck, is being boomed everywhere today and rarely do we find a bird so well deserving of a boom. Its good qualities are so many that like the Barred Rock, its popularity will continue and grow after the first enthusiasm has spent itself. For this reason we can't make a mistake in undertaking their breeding.

The demand for Indian Runner Ducks and eggs is so great as they become acquainted that it is doubtful if they will ever be supplied.

Most breeders now have orders booked ahead so that many must reserve their stock later than they had hoped, but everyone interested in poultry should endeavor to get a start with these ducks that be to us a share in the profits.

The Australian egg laying contests brought the Indian Runner to the attention of many people. Some pens averaged 200 eggs per duck. It is the egg laying traits that have brought this duck such popularity. One duck has been known to lay 272 eggs in one year.

When I first made my start I had 9 ducks. They started to lay the last day of October at five months old and these ducks laid every day for 11 months and 14 days without missing one day, and it was not unusual to gather morning after morning as many as 100 eggs. The average weight of this duck is 4 pounds and the ducks lay 4 to 5 eggs per day. A 4 pound duck to lay 200 eggs larger than a hen's egg seems marvelous, and yet it is an authentic fact that many Indian Runner ducks have this record. These ducks have been applied called the Leghorn of the duck family. The wonder is that every working man with a family to support does not keep a flock of these ducks and let them help him reduce the cost of family living by producing daily large fresh nourishing eggs for his family. The Indian Runner ducks are easily kept. They are great foragers when they have their freedom and pick up much of their own living. Yet they bear confinement well and will thrive in a pen with a fence 2 feet high.

Water for swimming is not necessary, though they would not be ducks if they did not enjoy swimming when opportunity offers but a trough or bucket of water deep enough so they can completely immerse their head is sufficient. It is necessary that they have fresh water to drink and that they wash their eyes and nostrils.

They thrive best on soft food, a crumbly mash with plenty of green stuff, oyster shell and grit. They will eat some hard grain at night. To keep up their laying, some beef scrap in their feed is necessary. They lay early in the morning often before 9 a. m. they have all laid their eggs, they generally start about 3 a. m. and from this to 9 a. m. I keep my ducks up till 9 a. m. and hardly ever find any eggs after that till the next day. While their chief virtue is their laying ability, the young are coming to be prized for eating as their flesh is tender and gamey. The best time to butcher the young is when they are 10 weeks old. They are full grown then and the males can be distinguished from the females. For breeding purposes 1 drake for 4 ducks is essential. They are very pretty birds. The usual color is fawn and white. The eggs are large.

If an old sore existed simply because the flesh was diseased at that particular spot, it would be an easy matter to apply some remedy directly to the place that would kill the germs; or the diseased flesh might be removed by a surgical operation and a cure effected. But the very fact that old sores resist every form of local or external treatment, and even return after being cut away, shows that back of them is a morbid cause which must be removed before a cure can result. Just as long as the pollution continues in the blood, the ulcer remains an open cesspool for the deposit of impurities which the circulation throws off. S.S.S. cures Old Sores by purifying the blood. It removes every trace of impurity and taint from the circulation, and thus completely does away with the cause. When S.S.S. has cleansed the blood, the sore begins to heal, and it is not a surface cure, but the healing process begins at the bottom; soon the discharge ceases, the inflammation leaves, and the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S.S.S. the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired by the drain and worry of an old sore will be doubly benefited by its use. EXALL PROPOSED SEC. AGRICULTURE of cloud, a monument to the waste and prodigality of the people. Dead animals of all kinds, from rats to horses, that should be put into a compost heap and gradually incorporated into fertilizers of greatest intrinsic value, are allowed to decay where they die, polluting the atmosphere and returning almost nothing to the soil.

Production Decreasing. So general has this method of spoliation become that it has been stated upon good authority that more than half of all lands in cultivation in the United States have greatly deteriorated in their power to produce. Despite the fact that we have, within the past forty years, put under the plow the choicest part of what is known as the prairie plains, extending from Ohio west through the Dakotas, down the Mississippi Valley and southwest through Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, and despite the fact that we have learned more about selection and have had better agricultural implements for cultivating and for harvesting than ever before, so universally have we robbed the earth, milking without feeding, subtracting without adding, checking out with depositing, that we now produce less wheat and corn combined per acre than we did forty years ago.

In extracting everything from the earth we have failed to create a sinking fund to pay this debt, and have in many instances destroyed both principal and interest.

Forty years ago the population of the United States was about forty millions; it now approximates one hundred millions. At the present rate of increase there will be three hundred million people in this country, well within this century. Ten years ago we raised five hundred million bushels of wheat and exported thirty-seven and one-half per cent of it. We now, by increased acreage raise seven hundred million bushels of wheat and export seventeen per cent of it. Ten years ago we raised two and one-half billion bushels of corn and exported three per cent of it. We now raise three billion bushels of corn and export three per cent of it—almost a losing proposition.

Ancient Nations Perished from Starvation. Recent experiments lead us to believe that prehistoric Nations which flourished for a time and then mysteriously faded away, really died from gradual starvation. The mighty men who built the pyramids unwittingly sapped the earth of its vital forces, especially of phosphorus, for which there is no known substitute. They then became anemic from eating bread that was deficient in the necessary mineral ingredients, and was not a balanced ration. They were swept from the face of the earth by the first pestilence that struck them while they hunted for a promised land that they failed to find. Rome robbed the soil of Italy, Sicily, Sardinia and Africa of these vital forces with her captive peasants until their wheat crops decreased from thirty-eight or forty bushels to three or four bushels to the acre, and that of such poor quality that it would not make life-giving bread, and her people became anemic, and an easy prey to the more vigorous men of the hill countries, the Goths and the Vandals.

Col. Exall devoted considerable time to urging the bankers to encourage farmers to plant something besides cotton, to make them loans on other things and help them to diversify and save the soil. He dwelt also on cowpeas which he declared to be an especially successful crop in this section and one furnishing great quantities of nitrogen to the soil, the quality of the fertilizer obtainable when purchased in the markets. He told the great value of seed selection and how it will double the crop yield. "Get behind those farmers; you can't make a town unless you do." In conclusion he begged the men of affairs and all others to take care of the soil today that we may take care of the generations yet unborn and save them from the degeneration that followed the ancients.

Northeast Texas Fair. As Mayor Bodenheimer of Longview was not present, the entire assembly was somewhat disappointed, but this disappointment was only momentary as Mr. C. Hargrove, president of the First National Bank of Pittsburg, was on hand and made a very able address. Mr. Hargrove is also president of the Northeast Texas Fair.

He paid a high tribute to the address of Col. Exall, and gave some reminiscences of early days in Texas. He spoke of the growth of the Northeast Texas Fair and said that he hated to think that the East Texas Fair at Tyler claims all the territory south of the Texas-Pacific tracks, consequently claims Marshall. He thinks he will claim North Marshall on a technicality. He explained the object of the fair is to exhibit the resources of East Texas, and invited everybody to be present during the fair in Pittsburg in November. He also said that it behooves a man to do the work for which he is prepared and to start, build and work on the things at hand. "Let us get together and work that everybody shall see the progress of East Texas."

At the conclusion of this speech, Rev. Kramer, toastmaster, suggested that a vote of thanks be extended to Col. Exall and Mr. Hargrove. It was unanimously adopted.

The Bar. Hon. Richard Sexton was next on the program, speaking on "Influence of the Bar." He said he felt ashamed in this crowd of preachers and newsmen should have been a lawyer. He told of the wonders of Marshall for the edification of the visitors, bounding the city by Texarkana, Shreveport, Galveston and Dallas; greater merchants than in London and Venice; women more lovely than Rachel; preachers who excelled in eloquence; Cannon, Farrar, Talmage, Bankey or Moody. The Business Club is a progressive and not a staid organization. He told of a prayer by a Marshall preacher who prayed for the people in all the uninhabited portions of the earth, and thought he might have had reference to Jefferson.

The Clergy. Rev. W. T. Tardy spoke on "Clergy as Boosters." He said his friend Barton had printed his "Biggest story" and said he had heard all the prevarications he had heard for two years. He said he was glad Col. Exall had spoken as he had been trying

LIVED ON RAW EGGS

Mr. Richard's Experience With Different Diets. Peaches and Buttermilk for Three Years.

Cecilton, Md.—Mr. George Richards, of this place, during the past 12 years, has probably tried more different diets than the average person would ever use in a lifetime.

What he has to say about his experience to anyone suffering from indigestion or stomach troubles of any kind. He says: "For more than 12 years, I suffered with stomach troubles, and paid hundreds of dollars for doctor bills and medicines. I was also operated on for piles."

I lived on dried peaches and buttermilk for nearly three years. The only thing that would not give me pain was raw eggs. I was a physical wreck. I could not sleep, and was as near crazy as a man could be.

I must say that after taking two 25-cent packages of Theodore's Black-Draught, I did me more good than all I ever spent for other medicines.

I have been working daily on the farm ever since, and I am as hard as iron. This purely vegetable remedy has been in successful use for more than 70 years. Try it. But be sure that it's Theodore's.

In his humble way to speak for fifteen years, the soil, the soil. He referred to the Briggs articles in the Dallas News to prove the greatness of East Texas. He spoke of the absence of any college from Huntsville to Texarkana and the great need of such an institution. The proposition was described as the matter of selling thirty acres and he expected Marshall to give $100,000 bonus after the reality part of the deal. He predicted great things for the college as a whole East Texas institution.

T. B. Owens, who was to have spoken on "Marshall's Great Industry," could not be present on account of sickness.

Our Educational System. Prof. B. B. Cobb made an address on "Our Educational System." He said in part: Proper relation exists between an educational institution and the people at large. Schools are pre-eminently the property of all the people, and the Y. M. B. C. should be congratulated on their help of the schools in general. We need more men to study schools and school progress. The progress of a community is commensurate with the intelligence of its population. The schools produce the greatest good for the greatest number, and equal opportunity should be had for all people to secure an education. About ninety-five per cent of the people in the United States obtain a living in industrial pursuits, and five per cent go to college. We should give thought to the ninety-five per cent. Experts from other states showed us the value and fullest possibilities of East Texas, and children of East Texas are being robbed of chances on account of lack of an education to see their opportunities. Every man should have two kinds of education, one to perform the work and the other to live. Education must be spiritual as well as industrial. The Y. M. B. C. should be congratulated in their co-operation in educational and spiritual pursuits.

How to Build a City. Rev. C. C. Weaver was the next speaker on "How to Build a Great City." He told why the Blues are said to be the first booster, in her insistence on Adam eating the apple. Womanhood, he said, is one of the most essential in booster work. Young manhood must be utilized and the ability of our young men must be employed and properly compensated in Marshall. To make a great city unify all interests, cast aside all jealousies and selfishness. Cheap money is also considered essential. He urged setting aside selfish pleasures for the sake of the booster club.

W. T. Twyman moved that the Y. M. B. C. tender Dr. Kramer a rising vote of thanks for making this banquet a success.

The Press. Mr. Homer Price was the last speaker, and he made a comparison of a twelve who proposed, the outcome being that "too much has already been said." He said that his experience said the newspaper world was unique and brief. He was editor, proprietor, etc., of the Marshall Messenger in 1884 and held that position for a year. While there he continually jumped on the Dallas News and looked for an answer, but was discouraged for a long time until an answer came out in the answers to correspondents column on a request from Georgia for a "weakly" paper, the Messenger being at that time the weakest known to the Dallas News. He stayed away from Marshall for seventeen years and then came back and ran the Sentinel. He says that everything the Sentinel advocated has been adopted, except the vindictive to the North Side, and this is also necessary.

He is of the opinion that we have an overdose of standpatters. He says that the box factory has been boosted for some time, but as soon as something besides the box factory is to be boosted, the newspapers will do a generous share.

He referred to the British merchant marine being the greatest in the world, but they believe in boosting, and we should make all the noise we can and the newspapers will do their part. He hoped that the next president would be Woodrow Wilson, and the text secretary of agriculture would come from Texas, referring to Col. Exall, the chief speaker of the evening.

EXALL PROPOSED SEC. AGRICULTURE

Should Governor Wilson of New Jersey be elected president of the United States the name of Col. Henry Exall of Dallas will be proposed for secretary of agriculture by the Young Men's Business Club of Marshall. This suggestion was made at the banquet Thursday night and met with ready response on the part of the banqueters, who applauded enthusiastically. Col. Exall is in earnest labor for the conservation of the soil, and he has the friendship of the national committee from Texas. Hon. Cato Sells, hence the chances are good for the appointment.

To the music of the Light Guard Junior Band and beneath many strings of electric lights across Austin street between Bolivar and Washington and a crescent moon, the Young Men's Business Club open air banquet was held Thursday night. It was a magnificent success. Fully 300 was happy and jolly and royally entertained by the speakers, the thread of which was the development of East Texas, the conservation of the soil and the bringing up the farms to what they should be.

The out of town guests were Col. Henry Exall of Dallas, president of the Texas Industrial Congress; Harry B. Mummett, field secretary of the same institution; Editor Callaway of the Hughes Springs Gazette; W. C. Hargrove, president of the First National Bank of Pittsburg, and president of the Northeast Texas Fair Association. The banquet was notable for the attendance of a large number of young men.

The menu consisted of barbecued meats, pickles, salads, crackers, cakes, bread and watermelons. The tables were set on the pavement and were loaded.

The meat was furnished by Milan's market; the bananas were donated by a Spanish Austin street merchant, the coffee was given by Cock's grocery and the cakes and crackers by the Brown factory.

The whole crowd was upon invitation of the management, the guests of the Elk theatre at the conclusion of the speeches and although it was almost midnight, Manager Holloway greeted them with a happy smile and made them welcome with real cordiality.

Many ladies lined the sidewalks to listen to the speeches.

Monsieur Granger's invocation. Rev. C. C. Kramer, as toastmaster, made an introductory talk on unity, and commented on the few comments, the remarks indicating the fighting qualities of the people and the "shall" a determination to do. He expressed strong desire that this city set upon a hill shall not be bid.

Monsieur Granger was then invited to deliver the invocation, which he did, preceding it with a few commendatory remarks on the work of the club, he telling how essential such an institution is for the welfare of the city.

Our Booster Club.

Mr. Hobart Key was the first speaker on the program and spoke on "Our Booster Club." He said the reason a booster club was necessary was so that young men should blaze the way of their fathers and also advance on ways of prosperity beyond. The Y. M. B. C. is an ideal club for the advancement of prosperity as it is composed of the ambition of youth, and older and wiser heads to assist the younger ones. As good comes from unity, the success of the club is assured. Mr. Key moved that resolutions of thanks and wishes for complete recovery to health be voted to Mr. F. S. Littlejohn, president of the present club, and the resolutions were approved by the entire assembly rising.

Col. Exall's Address. Col. Henry Exall was then introduced. He said it was a great pleasure to talk to these people of East Texas, a section of Texas where the man of moderate means can find no equivalent opportunities anywhere. When I see you boosters of Marshall," he said, "I know you will make this the garden spot of Texas." He told us that we had every opportunity for success, we can raise anything. Col. Exall referred to the $10,000 methods, to use every possible means to conserve its productivity; to save every particle of fertilizing matter and return it to the soil; to convert the sewerage and garbage of cities into fertilizers; to grow leguminous plants to be plowed under, to improve the soil and restore the nitrogen and other mineral fertilizing matter extracted by the growing crops; to follow a regular system of crop rotation; to stop waste in the home, on the farm and in transit; to realize the fact that the life of the Nation depends upon the preservation of the essential fertilizing elements in the soil; to instill into the minds of every man, woman and child the all-important truth that our greatest material heritage is the acre that will produce."

No Permanent Agriculture.

It is almost true that there is no permanent agriculture with very large population. So long as you rob Peter to pay Paul, buying the grain that the raised upon John's land to feed the cattle upon your land; so long as you cut the grass upon some other land and add it to your land; so long as you take phosphorus and other essential fertilizing materials from the mines of the earth and put them on your land; so long as you grow leguminous crops and plow them under to enrich your land—in fact, so long as you return as much to the land as you take from it, you can continue to live upon its products; but when it comes to the fight between the acre and the man, man necessarily takes away more than he returns and must inevitably get the acre. Then as a material consequence the acre must get the man.

Wasteful Prodigality.

The earlier settlers of the United States brought with them from Europe some of the economical agricultural ideas of those older countries, and cultivated and fertilized the lands as their forefathers did, taking the fine needles and on leaves from the wooded pastures to bed the cowboys and barnyards so that all fertilizing matter might be absorbed and put back upon the land to compensate for what the growing crops had taken away. But as the population grew and the younger generations climbed the Alleghenies and viewed from the summit the seemingly unending acres of the prairie plains where the rich lands could be had for the asking, they thought that it was actually boundless, and that its fertility was everlasting. This embarrassment of riches made them recklessly extravagant and wasteful. They became miners of the soil, rather than farmers, taking everything from and returning nothing at all. Food of every kind was so cheap and plentiful that the older sections of the Union concluded that it was no longer necessary to grow green cover crops to be turned under so as to return in part what they were taking from the land. They plowed up and down instead of around the slopes, thus encouraging terrific waste by washing and erosion, and millions of acres of once fertile land were ruined and no longer useful for agricultural purposes.

Burning Money.

The nitrogen, phosphorus and potash in the stalks from a hundred bushels of corn or from a bale of cotton, if bought in the market at wholesale, would cost $10 in gold, and on more than nine-tenths—possibly nineteen twentieths—of the farms in the Nation these stalks are burned and the land is temporarily destroyed upon which the fires are lighted. The straw and other roughness which should be used to bed the stables, pens and lots where stock is fed, that they may act as absorbents, saving the liquid as well as mineral manure, and adding to its mineral fertility and humus, have in the majority of cases been wantonly burned and destroyed. In the best small grain sections of the country the smoke from the burning straw stacks at times almost obscures the sun, forming a mighty pillar
